The largest South African news resource

Designed specifically for libraries in South Africa, Access South Africa provides in-depth coverage of local and regional issues and events via newspapers and newswires from across the country. These daily and weekly sources chronicle local issues and events at their source and provide revealing local perspectives on national and international issues.

A comprehensive research tool

Access South Africa provides the full text of millions of current and archived news articles that researchers can use to pinpoint sources, compare perspectives and track subjects historically and geographically. This robust resource includes more than 130 titles from seven provinces, including titles such as Mail & Guardian, Beeld, The Citizen, City Press, Witness, Son, Daily Sun, Hermanus Times, Kouga Express, Ons Stad, Potchefstroom Herald, Stellenbosch Gazette, Vaal Weekblad and Volksblad, as well as Cape Argus, Mercury, The Star, Sowetan, Bolander and Isolezwe ngeSonto. Access South Africa offers detailed coverage of culture, sports, business, the arts, government, politics, finance, health, technology and much more. Daily updates keep users informed about the latest developments throughout the country and outside of its borders. Retrospective articles—some dating as far back as the late 1980s—are ideal for comparing today’s issues and events with those that took place in year’s past.

Beyond its robust new database, Access South Africa includes a series of Special Reports—news articles, maps, images, videos and other useful content grouped for convenience under specific topics and themes. Easily accessible within NewsBank resources, Special Reports enable users to quickly locate information on a specific subject while helping them gain better insight into current issues and events on a global scale. Special Reports topics...Natural Disasters, World Environment and others.

Intuitive, customisable interface

All of the news articles within Access South Africa are fully searchable online through a single intuitive interface. A map-based design makes it easy to pinpoint areas of coverage and enables researchers to quickly search a single title, a group of newspapers within a province or all titles within the collection simultaneously. A full bibliographic citation accompanies each article so users can refine their searches by Author, Date, Section and more, and a handy sidebar feature enables researchers to filter the information they’ve located either geographically, by news media, date or source. Libraries can even customise their interface with quick links to popular titles so students and patrons can easily locate articles from a specific source or province.

Access South Africa is part of the greater South African News Archive, a suite of collections that comprise the world’s largest repository of current and historical African news sources from 1800 to present day. Related collections include African Newspapers, Series I 1800-1922; African Newspapers Series II 1800-1900 and FBIS Daily Reports: Sub-Saharan Africa 1974-1996.
